Corsicana School Supt. Joe Lindsey received notification by telegram today that the school district has been granted a week's extension—until May 17—to file an answer to a complaint in administrative proceedings presently pending against Corsicana. Today had been the deadline for Corsicana to submit an acceptable desegregation plan.

Lindsey received the following telegram from Peter E. Holmes, director of Office of Civil Rights, HEW, Washington, D.C. today:

"Per your request, in order to give your district additional time in which to submit an acceptable desegregation plan, you are hereby granted until May 17 to file an answer to complaint in administrative proceedings presently pending against your district."

"It is understood that if settlement is not reached a corresponding extension will be made of the deferral against your district's application for new funds set forth in my letter of April 17, 1973," Holmes' wire read.

Supt. Lindsey told The Daily Sun at noon today "Our plans are to go ahead with the plan that was presented to the board of education and acted on Tuesday. That is, we will submit this plan to HEW for its consideration."

Lindsey said the school district had requested the extension some two weeks ago.

Moore, Miss McElwreath Win 'Outstanding' Senior Titles In Annual Observance Here

BY SAM PENDERGRAST

Editor of The Sun

Miss Athria McElwreath, long-time local nurse and church worker, and Paul Moore, for nearly half a century a member of the staff of The Corsicana Daily Sun, have been honored as the outstanding senior citizens of Navarro County.

Awards were made Friday afternoon by County Extension Agent Gene Sears before a "good turn-out" of retired citizens in a festive affair sponsored by the County Health and Aging Committee and emceed by Chairman Lin Warthan.

Other nominees—all recognized and awarded boutonnieres Friday—were Mrs. Willie Nicholson, Apt. 13-C of Northwest Apts. in Corsicana, nominated by the Housing Authority Committee; Mrs. Daisy Hoggatt, Apt. 74-B, Northwest Apts., nominated by Trinity Baptist Church; and Mrs. Marguerite Anderson, 716 East Seventh St., nominated by the Texas Home Demonstration Club, Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Orr and others;

Also Mrs. Allie Owen of Kerens, nominated by County Commissioner Arlon G. Simmons; Mrs. Mamie Page of 1014 South 15th, nominated by Westside Baptist Church; Mrs. Mamie Poarch of 1319 West 11th, nominated by Mrs. Ethel Osborne and Mrs. B. J. Acock;

Also Freeman Robinson of 1101 East Tenth, nominated by the Navarro County Action Committee and various individuals; and Percy W. Varnell of 1819 West First, nominated by the American Red Cross, Fire Dept., Police Dept., and Civil Service Commission.

1972 Honoree Mrs. Hallie Boswell helped Assistant County Extension Agent Mrs. June Shepherd in welcoming the honorees, whose names were read by County Judge Rob Dunn.

T. L. Carlisle was guest speaker, and Jim Stephenson entertained. Refreshments were served by the Navarro County Retired Teachers Association.

Miss McElwreath was a missionary nurse in China for ten years where she organized and trained Chinese nursing students. She has trained LVN's in Florida and in Denton, Fort Worth and Corsicana, and she taught LVN classes at Memorial Hospital from 1960 to 1966.

Sears said she has personally funded several girls through college, one of them a Chinese girl who has returned to her homeland as a missionary.

Since retirement, she has assisted with administrative duties in nursing homes in Corsicana and Wortham.

Moore, for 42 years the sports editor of The Daily Sun, who retired recently as part owner and executive editor, has been active in a broad range of community affairs for many years.

He is president of the Memorial Hospital Board of Managers, vice-chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, officer of the Sunday School of First Baptist Church, and a member of the Active Board of Deacons of First Baptist.

He has been on the hospital board for about 35 years and has served for some time on the Salvation Army board and in various capacities at his church.

Moore and Miss McElwreath were awarded certificates and given mementoes by Sears.

FATHER AUGUST J. MERKEL ...
... Retiring after 13 years

Fr. Merkel Retiring; New Priest Due Here

Father August J. Merkel is retiring from Immaculate Conception Church as Pastor Emeritus May 29, after spending more than 13 years as Pastor here from Jan. 20, 1960.

Fr. Merkel was born in Forbach (Black Forest), Germany, October 11, 1908.

He attended school in Baden and the University of Salzburg, Austria. The Prince Archbishop of Salzburg ordained Fr. Merkel July 15, 1934, at the Salzburg Cathedral.

Later he took post-graduate studies at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., and Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis.

The Father taught at Palatine College in Milwaukee for ten years before volunteering for mission work in the diocese of Dallas-Fort Worth.

After intermittent parish work at Dallas, Longview, and Fort Worth, Fr. Merkel was named pastor at Ranger and Scotland. From 1953 to 1960 he was pastor of the Hillsboro parish.

Father John W. Fowler comes here from Immaculate Conception Church in Tyler to assume Fr. Merkel's duties.

Fr. Fowler has been named the new leader of the local church by Bishop Thomas Tschoepe.

60 Summer Youth Jobs Lost

The Nixon-ordered halt to the federal Office of Economic Opportunity programs has eliminated the National Youth Corps program which last year provided summer jobs for 60 local youngsters 16-18 years of age, according to Navarro County Action Committee Executive Director Jerome Vacek.

"The kids should know that there will not be any jobs through NYC this summer," Vacek said. He noted that the local NYC program has been administered out of the NYC office in Groesbeck. This office is in the process of closing down now due to the federal fund cutbacks, and the officials asked Vacek to let the young people know about the job situation.

Vacek said it is unlikely that the NYC program will ever come back in its present form. There are alternate programs being considered to provide summer jobs for young people in this area, but no such programs have been finalized. He noted if the proposed programs provide one-third as much funds for youth employment "we'll be lucky."

The NYC program paid participants $1.60 per hour to work an average of 26 hours per week. The youngsters worked for various schools and child centers, one as a clerical assistant to a justice of the peace, and others on city clean-up projects. All employment was with public agencies.

American-Way, Inc., of Arlington is the new owner of Corsicana Mobile Homes, Inc., and other properties of its parent company, Williams Craft, Inc., (declared bankrupt in federal bankruptcy proceedings early in April), it was learned here Wednesday.

The Corsicana mobile home plant has been closed down for more than two months.

Efforts to reach President Don Gallagher of American-Way in Arlington were unsuccessful up to press time today.

Embry Ferguson, president of the Corsicana Industrial Foundation, was notified by letter Wednesday from Theodore Mack, Fort Worth receiver for Williams Craft, Inc., that he had sold five properties of the bankrupt firm to American-Way, Inc. The Industrial Foundation had sought to make a bid on the local plant property.

Mack advised Ferguson that the sale included the corporate offices in Arlington of Williams Craft, Inc., the Williams Craft Mobile Mfg. Co. of Arlington, the Contempro Mobile Homes, Inc., of Arlington, the Yazoo Mobile Homes Inc., of Yazoo

City, Miss., and the Corsicana Mobile Homes, Inc., plants.

The Corsicana manufacturing plant was established by Williams Craft on East Highway 31 near IH 45 by-pass late in 1971 for its expanded production of several lines of mobile homes.

Federal Bankruptcy Referee John Flowers announced in Fort Worth April 11 that he had placed Williams Craft, Inc., in bankruptcy and appointed Mack receiver to liquidate the firm's assets after a meeting with creditors. At that time, Flowers was quoted in news reports from Fort Worth that officials of Williams Craft said the company owed debts of some $7 million and the assets were insufficient to cover them.

Monday Noon Deadline Set For Tickets

Don Bowen, ticket chairman for the "Kay Russell Day" banquet Tuesday night at NJC Student Union dining hall, has set a noon Monday deadline for reservations for the affair.

Tickets are available from the Chamber of Commerce office, Jim Stephenson's P & S Pharmacy in Navarro Mall, and members of the Ivy League Garden Club.

Ivy Leaguers who may be contacted for tickets are Mmes. James Cross, Jack Smith, Robert Thurston, Gene Johnson, Herb Schleiditz, and Rodney Haedge.

The Ivy League ladies are also decorating the tables in the hall with a motif featuring carnations and cornflowers.

Bowen reminded citizens that the affair is a county-wide function, and he invited ticket purchases by friends and neighbors of the Navy Pilot returning from nearly six years in a North Vietnamese prisoner of war camp.

But no tickets will be sold after noon on Monday because the cafeteria staff at the college must have that much notice to prepare the beef-and-trimmings dinners for Tuesday night.

Major program features were announced yesterday, including greetings by Cmdr. Russell's classmates, former teachers, football coach, Sunday school mentor, and Mayor Sue Youngblood.

'Disaster' Status Granted Corsicana

Navarro County Judge Rob Dunn announced Thursday morning that Navarro County has been designated as a disaster area as a result of the April 15 tornado which damaged several houses and considerable public property in Corsicana.

Judge Dunn said he received a telephone call from Jess Ward, regional director for the Defense and Disaster Relief Administration division of the Department of Public Safety in Austin, saying that official notice was received from Washington, D.C., this morning on the disaster relief request being granted.

This "disaster area" status, according to Judge Dunn, will allow local residents to apply for Small Business Administration loans if their property was damaged by the tornado. An SBA task force will be sent to Corsicana sometime in the near future to appraise property damage.

Dunn said this same task force will probably handle applications for relief as result of the damage caused by the March 10 tornado which hit Hubbard and caused other wind damage in parts of Navarro County. Navarro County was declared a disaster area in late April as result of this tornado.

In past years, needy countries have been able to count on huge surpluses in producing countries, mainly the United States and Canada, but FAO Asst. Director-General E.M. Ojala said these surpluses have now disappeared.

"The governments concerned have developed new techniques for adjusting production to demand," he told the economic committee.

He said that even if surpluses reappear, "they will be temporary and undependable as the world's central food reserve in moments of crisis."

Ojala said world wheat reserves are the lowest in 20 years, down to 28 million tons and only 23 per cent of estimated 1973-74 needs.

Deadlock Ends On Force Cuts In Mid-Europe

VIENNA (AP) — The three-month deadlock has been broken in the East-West efforts to make arrangements for talks on the reduction of forces in Central Europe, informed sources said today.

The sources reported that as a result, the 19 representatives of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Soviet Bloc's Warsaw Pact would hold their first plenary or public session on Monday.

Since the delegates from the two alliances began meeting here Jan. 31, they have been holding only informal private talks. One source suggested that on a number of issues, including the status of Hungary at the future talks, a compromise was reached.

The sources indicated that the NATO representatives accepted the Communist demand that Hungary be given observer status only in the substantive negotiations that are expected to start in the fall. As a concession to the West, however, the Communists agreed that Hungary's position would be reconsidered once the conference opened.

The West had wanted Hungary to be a full member of the conference in hopes that would bind her to whatever agreements were reached.

Newspaper Says Mitchell, Stans To Be Indicted

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says it has learned that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans are to be indicted today in connection with a federal investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco.

Mitchell was the director of the Committee to Re-Elect the President until last July. Stans was President Nixon's chief fund raiser.

The federal indictment is understood to charge that Mitchell and Stans accepted a $200,000 secret cash contribution from Vesco in return for an effort to influence an investigation of him by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Times said.

Dear Aunt Louise,
Seeing all of the magnificent roses in bloom at this time I recall the days I spent as a child in Dallas. Papa was raised on a farm and therefore was a firm believer in making use of every inch of ground on his property. When he built the house on the edge of Oak Cliff it was like living in what we now call "the country." We had an orchard on one side, a rose garden on the other, numerous trees of various foliage and many pets, chickens and a cow in the back yard. For a spell we also had a pony, a goat and several geese who loved to wander off down the back way to a stream that ran behind the house where we caught craw-dads. (I believe the proper name is cray-fish but no matter because we rarely made a catch with our string and bent pins.)

After paying what he considered an exorbitant price for grapes at Huber's Grocery Papa came home and began construction of a grape arbor. It consisted of laths laid crosswise on top and was held up by large sturdy posts. The leaves were healthy and abundant and provided much needed shade in summer when we chose the spot for watermelon eating but the grapes were, alas, sour enough to pucker you for a week.

The rose garden was his special delight and with the help of church members with similar tastes he had a glorious collection that he prided. While he worked in the soil he practiced his sermons and concentrated so earnestly he shut out the rest of the world.

When he was wanted on the telephone, which was quite often, we would call out at the top of our lungs, "PAPA TELEPHONE!" He hated to have to come inside because it meant removing his shoes, and washing his hands on the back porch each time. (Mama was "Mrs. Clean.")

One day after he heard the familiar call he came trudging

25 Discuss Priorities For NCARC

During the course of a daylong workshop Sunday, the Navarro County Association for Retarded Children established a number of priorities for the ensuing year with "increased public awareness" as the first priority, Mrs. Nolen Dockery, president, reported.

Mrs. Dockery said the workshop, held at the Child Development Center at Medical Arts Clinic, attracted about 25 adults and professional people.

"Our problem has been that we (NCARC) can't get parents to come out and participate and tell us what their problems and their needs are. This is why public awareness will be the first priority for the coming year," Mrs. Dockery said.

She said the workshop revealed that the second priority should concern a program of social activities for MR adults and a third priority for the next year should be planning for an activities center for all ages of MR children, broadening the program concept of the Child Development Center which presently works with pre-school-age children.

Joe Simpson, vice president of the Texas ARC, Longview, spoke on state policies and responsibilities to local and national associations for retarded children, and Bob Rundell, Arlington, vice president of the South-Central Region of the National ARC, reviewed what is done on the federal level to aid mentally retarded programs.

The morning session featured Simpson and Rundell, while the afternoon session was concerned more with "rap" sessions in which participants broke up into small groups to list priorities for future actions.

Another workshop will be held next year for leadership training following the annual TARC convention as this program was, Mrs. Dockery said.

New NCARC officers are to be elected at the next meeting, June 11. Elected as a nominating committee to present a resolution were in only to discover that none of us had called him. He returned to his flowers a bit annoyed and suspecting us of playing a trick. After a bit the call sounded again, "Papa, telephone!" This time he stalked in and queried each kid individually and when he found to his satisfaction no one had summoned him he became worried about his hearing faculty.

After several more of these false alarms he decided to conduct a search for some one hiding out back. When the hunt proved fruitless he was about to give up and accept the whole thing as just another of life's mysteries.

Suddenly the "Papa telephone," was very near and the tone was sharp. He walked close to the window of the next door neighbor on the far side of the garden and there, perched in a shiny new cage was a bright green parrot swinging merrily and making a clucking sound which could have meant "I sure fooled you, didn't I?"

From that day on we had to make a regular speech before Papa would lay down his tools and come inside. The parrot out-lived the neighbor and it was offered to us but my father turned it down cold even though, being of Scottish blood, he never said no to a gift.

We had many laughs thinking of the bird and what his new owners thought when he called out in a child's voice, PAPA TELEPHONE!" I can see him now with his funny old hat, the hoe, the cheeks flushed by the sun and I think again of Malloch's observation: "He who makes a garden works hand-in-hand with God."

Dear Aunt Louise,
I am so sorry you are in the hospital but if you had to be, you are fortunate to have Memorial at your disposal for the nurses and other personnel of that establishment certainly can help restore a broken body and spirit.

I love your column and wish you a very speedy recovery.

On Saturday April 28th while in Memorial Hospital I realized that not only was I going to spend my birthday, April 29th, in the hospital but it also was my fourth anniversary working for the Corsicana Daily Sun. I felt just a little bit alone and must admit, a little sorry for myself. Smile!

You will remember last week we mentioned how nice the nurses and entire staff were at Memorial? Sunday morning for some reason I slept later than usual. When I did get up the charming lady in the room with me said "Happy Birthday". She was Norma Parrish from Trinidad. She and her husband, Bill, have a restaurant and lodge there by the Trinity River bridge. Their specialty is fried catfish. I smiled and thanked her and told her I had already forgotten that it was my birthday.

Just about that time the phone rang. It was Sarah Holloway, just one of the many capable nurses. She said she had looked at my chart the night before and noticed the date of my birth and realized it was my birthday. Did you ever? I was so pleased.

Later in the morning Eula Mae Evans (Modern Beauty Shop), Edna Pitts, "Uncle" Raymond, Mrs. Pimentel and her two lovely daughters, and many more surely surprised me by remembering that I was a year older.

Dr. Lively Brown of the First United Methodist Church had been a regular visitor. He came by on Sunday but so did the Youth Director. He introduced himself and said, "Mrs. Foster, is it a boy or a girl?" "Young man, I am on the third floor where the maternity ward is but I assure you I don't have a new baby. My twin sons are soon to be twenty four years old and today I am celebrating my 58th year on this 'ole good green earth." Naturally he was a little embarrassed and quickly said the first thing that came to his mind to get himself off the hook, "My goodness, you surely don't look it."

Now, all women fall for flattery. I am no exception. It was really a humorous situation and the perfect ending of NOT A BAD DAY AT ALL.

Gee, since I've been back to work I've had so much CAT-CHING UP to do. I do need some mail, won't you write?

Yes, Elaine Mayfield promised that she would write a column for us as she has to be convinced that you readers enjoyed her so much. I am hoping that it won't be too long until she decides to get at her typewriter. Bye for now, will see you Sunday.

ENNIS — A dozen citizens gathered for the Ennis City Council meeting last night, at which about 20 items of business were acted upon, including a request from Lone Star Gas that an "automatic cost adjustment clause" be included in the Company's contract with the city.

Phillip Pollock took first place with his pair of wooden end-tables.

Other winners include Ned Balcom, second place, for a chest; Don Brazel, third place, lamp; Tim Barnabee, third place, model of a house; Gene Gardner, third place, pedestal desk; Johnny Cooper, third place, gravel entry; Jerry Davis, third place, lamp entry. David Kolsta won second place for a gravel entry and third place for a milling fixture drawing.

Early during the meeting, Lin Warthan was sworn in to replace Robert M. (Bob) Scott, the undertaker, as a member of the Housing Authority board. Scott resigned to take office as a Corsicana city commissioner.

Woman, Children Hurt In Accident near Barry

A Blooming Grove woman and her two small children were injured at 7:30 a.m. today when their car ran off the road and struck a bridge culvert on Farm Road 1126 about a mile north of Barry, investigating Highway Patrol officers reported.

Mrs. Teresa Parish, 24, was admitted to Memorial Hospital in apparent serious condition with facial injuries including a fractured nose, scrapes and cuts to her upper body. Her two small children still were undergoing X-ray examination at a late morning hour but didn't appear to be seriously injured, Memorial Hospital emergency room attendants said.

He said the merchants of Corsicana want to show the people of this area that they appreciate and want the business of customers in the Golden Circle area, and expressed hope that Corsicana will come to be recognized as the major shopping city for areas between Waco, Dallas and Houston.

The city manager said an ordinance should (1) provide route charts and (2) designate what areas will be included for city ambulance service.

Mayor W. D. Murff announced a meeting scheduled for May 11 at 10 a.m. with Ellis County Commissioners to discuss ambulance service responsibilities in the area.

The Council agreed to name the two city lakes—now joined—"Lake Clark" (includes the city's newest lake) and to name the older city lake "Ennis J. C. Park Lake." Another name suggestion from Councilman Willie Love was Bluebonnet Lake, which would have been in keeping with Ennis' "Bluebonnet City."

City Manager Routh estimated at least 2,000 dogs in Ennis have not been vaccinated and tagged. He urged cooperation from all dog owners to have their pets vaccinated by a licensed veterinarian, as required by city ordinance, and to obtain collar tags from the city secretary.

Over a half dozen zoning ordinances and specific use permits were agreed to by the Council, including a request from Lula F. Cox for re-zoning of Block 135, so an automatic car wash can be installed at 305 E. Brown. Also, lot 17 in Block 136 was commercially rezoned to be used in part of the car

A 1955 Chevrolet pickup taken from the property of H.O. Olsen last Thursday was recovered Saturday afternoon in Limestone County, about ten miles west of Wortham, Navarro County Sheriff Jerry Shelton reported.

Jimmy Chapman and "Red" Robinson are charged with theft of the vehicle and assorted items, including a gas can, food, bedding, dishes, camping equipment, and assorted tools—all taken from Olsen's camp house near Chambers Creek on Highway 287.

Chapman and Robinson broke into the camp house Saturday night and afterward spent the night in the woods. They were seen driving a white pickup truck with a license number of 1973-133. They were last seen driving west on Highway 287.

Shelton said "If anyone has information about either of the men, they should get in contact with the Freestone County Sheriff's Office."

Skylab Astronauts To Monitor Earth's Resources

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

Astronauts will play their first role as monitors of earth's natural resources when they board the Skylab space station.

They will use a $37 million array of six photosensors to evaluate actual and potential resources over a wide area of the globe.

A dozen countries have asked the astronauts to employ the sensors to scan farmlands, mountain ranges, river basins and watersheds in search of everything from minerals to crop disease.

The Skylab is scheduled to be launched May 14, with the three-man crew joining it the following day.

"The Skylab earth resources experiments offer an almost unlimited potential for near term benefits affecting man here on earth," reported astronaut Paul J. Weitz. He is the sensor expert on the Skylab 1 crew.

"During the five months the station will be manned by three crews, it will fly over 75 percent of the earth's surface, including the entire United States except Alaska," Weitz said. "With this excellent view, data can be obtained applicable to mankind's most pressing problems, such as weather, food production, pollution, flooding, erosion and the depletion of natural resources."

Weitz emphasized the sensors are experimental, designed to determine which instruments can best be used by man in space and which can be operated on unmanned satellites.

"But," he said, "they could lead to a science in such things as mapping snow cover and assessing water runoff potentials; mapping air and water pollution and their sources; assessing diseased and healthy crops; timber volume estimate; locating arable land; determining sea status and fishing grounds, and locating hidden oil and mineral reserves."

More than 90 principal investigators from the United States and 20 from other nations are involved in Skylab's earth resources study, which involves the use of multispectral, optical, infrared and photographic sensors.

A total of 132 targets have been selected for study by Skylab.

New Lebanese-Guerrilla Cease-fire Breaks down

Concord Daily Sun, Wednesday, May 9, 1973-7B.

the Shiyah suburb.

The fourth explosion blew up a restaurant between the plush St. George and Phoenix hotels next to the British Bank of the Middle East.

The army said its positions at the radar station, Beirut airport, the army combat school and the army officers' housing compound were being fired on by mortars and rockets.

Outside Beirut, the army said, in the Bekaa Valley, "army groups are still under intensive shelling by armed men."

"As for the south," the announcement said, "following the rocket and heavy mortar attack on the army Tyre garrison and the ambush of a military convoy on the Tyre-Sidon highway, eight soldiers were killed."

A senior army official said a joint cease-fire commission was making "desperate efforts" to stop the shelling.

Guerrilla attacks today also were reported against a number of army installations and villages in southeast Lebanon.

Indian Treaty
Question Long
And Ambiguous

WASHINGTON (AP) — The trouble with Indian treaties is that they are so easily broken.

Once any treaty is ratified, it becomes part of U.S. law. And, like any other law, it can be amended, superseded or repealed by a newer law.

So breaking an Indian treaty may not be honorable, but it can be perfectly legal.

Even in cases where there has been no legal justification for breaking a treaty, Indian tribes have often found themselves without the power to force compliance.

The question of Indian standing, and therefore claim to the land on which they live, has been ambiguous since the first white men came to America.

Charles V, king of Spain and grandson of Ferdinand and Isabella, made the first attempt at defining Indian property rights and turned to Franciscus de Victoria, professor at the University of Salamanca and one of the foremost theologians of his day.

Victoria said Indians had title to their land and Spaniards could not claim it by virtue of discovery. He suggested that if Europeans wanted Indian land, they buy it.

"Victoria's advice was not always taken literally, as white explorers continued to claim new discoveries in the name of European monarchs, although his ideas survived in an unwritten code which generally ascribed sovereignty to the white kings but title to the Indians.

The English colonizers followed this rule, and individual colonies passed ordinances requiring acquisition of Indian land be by purchase authorized by the colonial government.

The British home government held similar views.

During the American Revolution the Continental Congress continued to deal with Indians in the same way and concluded the first U.S.-Indian treaty with the Delawares on Sept. 17, 1778.

In 1784, Congress appointed commissioners to negotiate peace terms with Indians along the frontier and set up boundaries, making it clear that the territory belong to the government although the Indians could live on it.

"The United States alone possess the sovereign power within the limits described at the late treaty of peace between them and the king of England," David Ramsay, chairman of the Congress, declared. "You may also assure the Indians that they tell lies who say that the king of England has not in his late treaty with the United States given up to them the lands of the Indians."

But the Indians resented the government's approach and it became apparent that the United States, which had no standing Army once the Revolution was over, was going to have to soften its stand or fight.

Consequently, the secretary of war in 1788 recommended a new policy of purchasing land the government had been virtually confiscating in peace treaties. Money was appropriated to purchase Indian claims to land already ceded, and treaties were renegotiated.

On Jan. 9, 1789, treaties were signed with the Six Nations and the Wyandot, Delaware, Chippewa and Ottawa establishing a new official view of Indian lands rights. In these landmark treaties, the United States gave up claim to designated territory to be held by the Indians.

The early treaties contained several other provisions implying a degree of Indian sovereignty.

As early as 1778 Delaware treaty, the government guaranteed the integrity of Indian territory. Boundaries were set out between U.S. territory and Indian land and between Indian nations, just as the map of Europe was redrawn after the World Wars.

Treaties signed with northern tribes in 1785 and 1786 provided that any U.S. citizen attempting to settle on Indian land forfeited the protection of the United States.

The U.S. government obviously recognized an international character to Indian relations and several treaties stipulated that having allied with the United States, the Indians could not ally with other nations.

Such anachronisms encourage a view of the treaties as quaintly out of date and not to be taken seriously, although some guarantees of goods and services are still vitally important to the Indians.

Memorial Honors Employees For National Hospital Week

Navarro County Memorial Hospital is one of more than 7,000 hospitals across the nation joining in a celebration of National Hospital Week, May 6-12, according to Gene Barron, administrator.

This week, set aside for the recognition of the nation's hospitals and the three million employees of these health care facilities, was begun in 1920, Barron said, when leaders in the health field established a National Hospital Day that marked the 100th anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightengale, the woman credited with establishing the modern profession of nursing. In 1953 National Hospital Day was extended to the week-long event now observed, sponsored by the American Hospital Association.

Each year during this week, the administrator said, the highlight of the observance locally is the Service Awards Tea held at the hospital at which time service pins are presented to employees. It was held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the dining room.

"This year's theme for National Hospital Week," Barron said, "is, 'Your Hospital... A Caring Community—Your Health... Our Common Concern.'" This theme will be echoed on posters throughout the hospital as well as in public areas across the city, on tray favors when meals are taken to patients, and on table favors in the hospital's snack bar and dining room.

Employees of the hospital will be wearing lapel buttons to commemorate the observance, and other plans are made for the hospital to show appreciation to the nearly 400 employees at Navarro County Memorial Hospital for their services to the hospital and to the community.

Referring to the theme of National Hospital Week, Barron said, "We believe this theme describes our institution. With the increasing public concern about the quality, availability and costs of health care, the employees of Navarro County Memorial Hospital are a community of caring people, who are concerned about bringing better health care to more people as efficiently as possible."

This concern creates the need for updating equipment and staying abreast of the latest developments in the health care field.

During the past year Barron listed the addition of a Mammography X-ray unit which is used to detect cancer of the breast, additions and expansion of the Physical Therapy Department, installation of a professional food management service to handle the dietary

Fire Destroys Elm Flat House

Corsicana firemen assisted the Kerens Volunteer Fire Department late Tuesday with a fire in the Elm Flat community south of Kerens which destroyed a large house and two nearby sheds.

Kerens responded to the alarm at 10 p.m. and called for assistance from Corsicana at 10:20 p.m. Sub-Station Commander George Scott said that when Corsicana firemen arrived on the scene the large house was "too far gone" to save and firemen concentrated their efforts in spraying water on nearby houses to prevent their catching fire.

He said Kerens had two trucks and Corsicana one and as the tank's water supplies were depleted, firemen had to drive to Powell to take on new supplies and return to the fire.

Some clothing was salvaged by the fire victims, the James Jackson family, Scott said, by neighbors assisting the occupants. Firemen were on the scene more than three hours.

Symposium Registrants

Students Introduced to Business Ideas

"You have been chosen because you have demonstrated leadership abilities and scholastic aptitude. We feel real honored to have you here for our First Annual High School Business and Economic Symposium," Don Bowen, Chamber of Commerce President, told approximately 100 seniors Wednesday at Navarro Junior College.

"You are a select group. We selected individuals so we can have a lively discussion and capitalize on your interest," he said.

"The people at the Chamber of Commerce feel that as young adults this is a good time to sit down and talk about the free enterprise system," he added. "You will be part of our economy as never before and take your place in the business world."

Lee Pennington, assistant superintendent for instruction for the Corsicana Independent School District, explained that the committee attempted to formulate a program of open discussion and dialogue for exchange of ideas with the hope of giving the student something to think about.

The committee invited three speakers to the symposium who were scheduled to speak this morning. They include Richard L. Hoffman, attorney for Mobile Pipe Line Company who was to discuss "Contributions of Business to Our Nation," George McKinney, Community Development Consultant of the Texas Power and Light Co. speaking on "Problems of American Business"; and James Sutton, consumer consultant, Office of Consumer Credit Commission for the State of Texas, who was scheduled to speak on "Consumer Issues In America Today."

O'Neal Named 'Teacher of Year'

Bill O'Neal, history instructor, was presented a $500 check recently on being named "Teacher of the Year" in the first poll of students, faculty and administrative board of Panola Junior College in Carthage. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. (Bud) O'Neal and has been an instructor at the college three years.

The $500 award was sponsored by the First State Bank and Trust Co. of Carthage. The award was presented by Vice-president W.C. Applegate, who announced that it will be presented annually hereafter to the college's instructor chosen as "Teacher of the Year." In making the award presentation, Applegate said he was the first student to register at Panola Junior College 25 years ago when it first opened.

O'Neal was elected in three polls conducted among students, faculty and administrative board in considering all the college's 35-member faculty.

Conflicts Are Created as Jews of Different Cultures Try To Live Together in Modern Israel

TEL AVIV (AP) — Kochavi Shemesh is a Jew who calls himself a Black Panther.

He has been in jail eight times for demonstrating against what he and many others claim is discrimination against "Oriental" Jews in Israel.

"Oh, there are never cases of restaurants or hotels refusing to serve Orientals. It is not that kind of discrimination" says Shemesh.

Few Israelis pay any attention to the color of another's skin, schools are not segregated, and Premier Golda Meir argues that charges of discrimination are "nonsense."

But hot-headed young Panthers and conservative older citizens from countries such as Iraq, Yemen or Morocco contend that Jews of Western descent run the country, monopolize the good jobs and dominate the armed forces. Easterners or Orientals, live in over-crowded conditions, get less education and do the poorly paid work.

New immigrants from the Soviet Union, settling in Israel at the rate of 3,000 a month, are assigned apartments as soon as they step off the plane, while thousands of poor families who came 20 years ago are still confined to slum housing. Most of those poor are Orientals.

"If this is not discrimination from the very top, then I do not know what discrimination is," says Shalom Cohen, a member of parliament.

Most Israelis, however, see the problem as deprivation rather than deliberate discrimination. But they are disturbed that after a quarter of a century — Israel celebrated its 25th anniversary May 7 — the problem remains unsolved.

Older Israelis of Western origin worry that the rush toward materialism and a changing life style are eroding the original Zionist vision of building — through dedicated work — an ideal Socialist state.

Eastern Jews, who never shared the Zionist vision, are more concerned with getting their share of status and prosperity.

In Israel, Jews of Western descent are called "Ashkenazi," while Eastern, or Oriental Jews are called "Sephardim."

Eastern Jews began pouring into the country from North Africa and the Middle East after 1948, some of them thinking the immigrant airplanes were the eagle wings of the Bible taking them to the Promised Land.

Many were uneducated and unskilled — some had to be taught how to sit on a chair — and fitting into the new state proved more difficult than anyone imagined.

Modern Israel was conceived and built by Western Jews, but the Sephardis now make up about 65 per cent of the population.

The majority, with many mouths to feed have become ineligible for good jobs in an advanced society, because they were unable to pull themselves up by their bootstraps.

Ovadia Sadik, for example, was a railway worker in Bagdad before moving to Israel 23 years ago. Since then Sadik — that isn't his real name, which he prefers not to disclose — has been working as a garbage-man, living in a hut he built himself in Tel Aviv's Hatikva — hope — slum district.

The Sadiks have applied many times for better housing or for neighborhood improvements, but "the Ashkenazis get everything and the government ignores us," he maintains.

The Sadiks are an extreme case. Still an estimated 60,000 Israeli families live in poverty, and almost all are Orientals. Orientals earn, per capita, about 60 per cent of the national average $1,800 a year. In 1970 the per capita income in the United States was about $4,200 a year.

When they come up against high school examinations many "realize they are not up to scratch — there is a terrific psychological shock" and they quit, some drifting into crime or prostitution."

Home Gardens
On the Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soaring food prices are driving millions of families into backyard spading and vegetable planting this spring in what may be the biggest outbreak of green-thumbers since World War II Victory gardens.

A limiting factor, according to a survey by The Associated Press, has been the severe weather this spring. As heavy rains, unseasonal snows and cold temperatures have throttled farmers, so have would-be gardeners been denied their salad days.

The big push for home-grown tomatoes, corn, lettuce, radishes and other garden goodies seems to be building up, however.

At the Department of Agriculture, where dozens of different pamphlets and brochures on gardening are turned out, officials say orders appear to be increasing from county extension offices and members of Congress where such information is available free of charge.

One popular item is "Minigardens for Vegetables" which explains and illustrates how tomatoes, radishes, chives, green peppers and other species can be grown in window boxes, old pants and even flower pots.

Is spading up the backyard badminton court for tomatoes, beans, pean and corn worth it?

Depends how big you want to be. If you have to invest $50 to $100 in new equipment, everything from hoes to fancy cultivators, fertilizer, pesticides, gloves, overalls and sunbonnets, maybe not.

On the other hand, packets of seed can be bought usually in small quantities for a few dollars. Tomato plants, ready to set out, cost more, depending on how large they are.

Dr. Clint Turnquist, a University of Minnesota vegetable expert, says people seem to like doing outdoor work and having their own fresh produce.

"Maybe it's partly because of the high food prices, but I think people are just getting in the swing, getting on the bandwagon of growing gardens," Turnquist said.

Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., helped publicize vegetable gardening recently by announcing he was planting lettuce, radishes, onions, string beans, garlic, squash, peppers and tomatoes as a protest against government farm subsidies.

An aide said Conte has drawn letters from irate farmers who complain they have a hard life in the best of times and that his remarks were unfair. An equal number of other letters applauded him, the aide said.

Seed merchandisers report sales up generally, but some see higher prices and supply problems later on.

One seed company executive, Albert Bijou of Dallas, Tex., said the severe weather this spring has caused many seeds to fail to germinate and must be replaced. He predicted seed prices will double by next fall.

Bijou is vice president and general manager of Nicholson Seed Stores, which does business over the northern half of Texas. Many seed producers have been discouraged by low prices and have turned to other crops.

Dr. John Lawson, Texas state horticulturist, estimates there are about 85 million home gardeners now. Those are increasing at the rate of one million a year, he said. The interest in small mini-gardens, roughly 10 by 12 feet, is almost as large as during World War II, Lawson said.

What about starting livestock operations in backyards? Maybe a miniranch as well as a minigarden?

The Agriculture Department, in addition to its many bulletins on vegetable gardens, also has one called, "Raising Livestock on Small Farms." It includes advice on how to raise chickens, ducks, geese, dairy cows, goats, sheep, rabbits, hogs and even squabs, young pigeons.

One reminder, according to the bulletin: Check local ordinances before buying poultry or livestock. You may find that rutabagas are far less bothersome than roosters.

For less venturesome families single copies of these publications are available free through county extension offices, members of Congress or directly from the Department of Agriculture, Office of Information, Washington, D.C. 20250.
